Notes for DANIEL VANAUKEN:

Daniel was christened on February 2, 1735 in Kingston, Ulster Co., New York. Daniel Van Aken owned one of the best farms in the Neversink Valley. During the raids of the Tories and Indians under Brant, July 1779, the savages burned the Machackemeck church and nearly wiped out the settlement. They visited the school house to the north east of VAN Aukens residence and killed and scalped Jeremiah VAN AUKEN, Daniel's son, and burned the latter's barn. Daniel's wife Leah, escaped by lying concealed in a ditch overgrown with grass and flag plants. The lives of the terrified school children were saved by Brant, who marked the girl's aprons with a substance of black. This the girls transferred to the boys and the Indians seeing the sign of their chieftain passed them unharmed.

Children of DANIEL VANAUKEN and LEAH KITTEL are:

  - vi. NATHANIEL VANAUKEN, b. Abt. 1765; d. Jan 26, 1835.
  - vii. ABSOLOM VANAUKEN, b. Sep 30, 1765; d. Unknown.

Notes for ABSOLOM VANAUKEN:

Absolom VAN AUKEN was born on September 30, 1765 in Machackemeck, Orange Co., New York. He was christened on November 17, 1765. He died about 1837 in Mahoning Co. Near Youngtown, Ohio.

There is a claim that Absolom did not return to Magdalena and family following the War of 1812, but abandoned them and started a new family in western PA. One of Absolom's sons, Jacob H., stated that his father had sold his NJ land for a coal mine in western PA, above Pittsburg. Perhaps so, however these people were known as Van Aukers for some reason.

His last child by Magdalena, Jacob H. was born in 1810. The first one recorded with Ruth Barns, Martha, was born in 1832. For a man who had 9 children by his first wife, it does not seem likely that he would not have sired any between Jacob H. (1810) and Martha (1832) at which time he would have been 67 years old.

Absolum is next found in western PA where he married Ruth Barnes and had three children by her. He is thought to have died in 1837.

The will of Madalena's brother, James , probated 3 July 1839, states "I give to my sister Magdalena, wife of Absolum Vanauken (the money was given in trust to David Vannoye for her) the said Absolum having abandoned her without giving to her means of subsistance and it being my intention to give to her a separate support independant and beyond the control of her worthless husband.

Evidently the money did not stretch far enough for all their needs. Absolum's son Jacob H. (History of Steuben County, Indiana) traded his farm in Pike Co. PA for a tract of coal land near Pittsburg which he refused to occupy. At five years of age, Jacob, was thus homeless and face to face with poverty. During succeeding winters he attended the country school of Sussex Co. NJ, his feet clad in rags, later to be exchanged for leather shoes purchased with quails he entrapped.
